i Thoughts on the Gospel Today's Gospel offers a new understanding of morality: a new focus on the passionate love of God.

n Jesus is emphatic that the Good News is love. He came with a promise that we would have a full life. The birth of Jesus offered a new beginning to the world, a new way of life. Today we are called again to take up Jesus' invitation to make a new beginning. The heart of this invitation is love because through love alone we please God and our main challenge is to acquire it.

o The Christian life is an exchange of love—the love we receive and the love we give for Christ. To walk the way of unconditional love is to accept an arduous task. This love is a lamp for our steps and a light for our eyes. To see ourselves as being separate from God and from each other is an illusion. We are all connected to one another and if someone performs an unkind act then it, too, has an effect on us all.

u In today's Gospel three people see the wounded man. The first two pass by because they ask the question: 'What will happen to me if I help this man?'

r The Samaritan turned their question on its head and asked: 'What will happen to this man if I do not help him?' If I was there that day: which of these questions would I have asked?
